TREE OF LIFE BURNS IN ERIN

SAD EYES WATCH TREE OF LIFE BURN

Allied nations' warhosts struggle hard to make peace for the people of Albion, and the world, though this time we hear it was not enough. The evil variety of fae, not our noble House Swan, burn the Tree of Life in Erin but cunning Fir Cruthen and brave Norscans have a restoration plan. Take that, fae of Domination! Our plucky lot will smash you in your sad, lonely, bullies' faces!

Dreamy one cruelly slain!

Ultimately brave, selfless, tall, legendary, modest, compassionate, skilled and heart-judderingly handsome knight-priest brother Aldwyn of Damacest is murdered by Gethan's demons. The saucy, wanton and desirous dreams of many in Albion shall not forget you, sweet knight! The Patriot understands that “inspirational” portraits of his chiseled features and fine sword arm are available.

A daring drama of dresses and demons in deepest Deira

Dirty “seneschal” Aidens uses former royal Matilda of Deira to try and shame Deira's kind monarchs, the Trevallian family, by interfering in Queen Margery's wardrobe. Rude! Keep your own clothing in good order, Aidens, you mouldy pox-cock! The Patriot thanks its contributors for this information.

Good thing that fighting demons drew Matilda back to doing a proper job. A shame that the demons were sent by Gethan to undermine Deira's rightful King and Queen but beggars can't be summoners.

Patriot seeks writer

The Patriot staff has to grow to sustain demand. Apply in writing to High King Rudraigh. One place vacant for cunning field reporter in Albion warhost.

The dark lady Morgaine: a profile in power and sadness

Equal or greater to the Merlin in talent and love for Albion, Morgaine's always been in the land's background to make the hard decisions that help the people. Not always well-treated! You can see how some might not trust her for being mysterious. Sad! She has the wisest words. We at the Patriot look forward to more tales of mystery and magic once her banishment is up. Albion needs Morgaine back one day! We hope she has something of a holiday until then.

Solkar's Corner: Gethan infiltrates household of poor, former royal Matilda of Deira!

Disappointingly still-evil Gethan Gaharis raises death knight “Sir Ademar” to steal his knowledge of former royal Matilda of Deira. For shame, let her retire in peace! Even her household's wardrobe sabotage to undermine rightful King and General of Albion Beaumont and Queen Margery Trevallian does not deserve this insult.

House Swan on battlefield!

Former high queen Grace's family, the new House Swan fae, seen fighting Albion's foes in Erin. “It was like the field was on fire with chivalry!” says one witness.

The Patriot predicts strong demand for blue clothing, a favourite Swan colour, in Albion fashions this year.
