VICTORY IN MANX

Fir Cruthen Allies Aided by Adept Assault

In May, Albion and its allies took the field in Manx (an island of the Fir Cruthen which has been invaded and held by the enemy). Marching on Manx was done to drive back the terrible fae there, and exact righteous vengeance after the sad (and temporary, you bastards!) loss of the Tree of Life. Our reports at the Patriot are that victory was confident and assured. Here's to more winnings like that in the year ahead! Then the people of Albion could use a break and some peace.

WHO IS THE BEST KNIGHT?

We at the Patriot hear there are a lot of knights in the Albion warhost but which one should the people be gathering woodcuts and illustrations of, in tribute and adulation? Will it just be the names of old, like Henri, Arwyn, Beaumont and Alistair or are there great new names to gape at in awe? Please tell us their tales!

Donations needed

For the wealthier people, please consider the less fortunate in all of Albion's kingdoms. This includes those hurt by such things as Bernicia's flooding, Deira's ravaging, Cornwall's burning a few years past, Oxford's recent devastation by fae invasion, the loss of troops and people of Essex, Wessex and Anglia in this “Fae War”. Give to the cause that is the Hospitallers of Damacest, that their works can spread even wider to bring light and hope to the small and the great, wherever people are in need.

House Swan: Can We Love Our Fae?

“They're just like us, but really, really old!” we hear, at the Patriot. We're pleased to know these great heroes are with us.

WANTED: People Who Are Better Than Gethan!

We'd offer a reward but as there are so many people with more moral fibre, goodness and righteousness than that cowardly, snivelling, manipulative and dirty-trousered (we hear that the smell of his “evil” is most unpleasant), thunderous fartbag... we just don't see the point.

Nimue or Nimaway - how does she spell it?

This learned wizard of Albion reportedly visited the warhost with offers of power – but at what price? Just who is this person really and what role does she have in Albion today? We at the Patriot think there's a big mystery to her strange reappearance and wonder at what her true goals may be – will she become friend or foe?

Patriot Still Seeks Writer

We at the Patriot are keen to expand our ranks with a member of the Albion Warhost to report upon the fortunes of those heroes. Please contact the High King to be directed to the address at which submissions can be made.
