LYONESSE - MYTHICAL LAND

A Squire for Everyone!

Knights just talking with each other about what makes a knight knightly is deemed to be “a bit boring” before High King Rudraigh applied some “discrete pressure” to these very heroic warriors.

All warhost knights must have a squire for the Renewal of Magics. Gasp!

MYSTERIOUS FORESTS IN FOREIGN FIELDS

In June Albion's warhost travelled to Lyonesse, presumably to act against the evil fae of Domination that seek to control all mortals. The thought makes us at the Patriot feel sick! It'll be sweet to win and finally put the fae war behind us all.

Apparently successful, the warhost bore their weapons of war but worked hard to not fight the locals, too much, who were just defending their homes. Sad times!

Lyonesse must be popular as the warhost is said to be going back there in August.

DEIRA – KING BEAUMONT AFFLICTED

King Beaumont's public appearances have dwindled amid reports of a brief but strong illness. As one of the most successful war leaders in Albion's history, a supremely skilled warrior and charismatic monarch, we at the Patriot are glad that he is paired with such a skilled and worthy partner and wife as our Good Queen Margaery. May the Seven continue to bless and fortify her, and may the low folk's love for Mithras and Ranalf also support Margaery and her husband. For Deira!

AVALON – Ordering Some New Heroes for Albion

We at the Patriot don't know much about this revived order of mystical people but they sound very Albion to us. Please write and tell us more!

ESSEX – Hail Squire Lorn!

Too short, too slight, too much a wizard and not enough metal armour...?

News of the Arcane Tempest's newly-appointed Squire Lorn (serving King Quentyn, no less!) makes waves. It's a good thing Essex fucking loves waves!

NORHOLT – One Day, a Kingdom? Shock Possibility for 1119!

ELMET – REPRESENTATION IN THE WARHOST GROWS!

The people of Elmet are proud and solid but we don't hear of many of these folk travelling to the warhost. What with the elven House of Thorns joining the kingdom, among others already present, we hear that more than a dozen of Elmet now stand amongst the warhost's compliment of around eighty souls. What a strong result! But where is their King Gallad of Elmet questing to now?
